HOW THE RYZON BAKING BOOK WAS MADE

WHEN the marketing of Ryzon was begun, it was soon learned that a practical manual for the use of baking powder was desirable. There seemed to be no really scientific or accurate instructions which could be used with assurance of satisfactory results. It appeared that the use of baking powder was a matter of personal experience with one brand that might or might not be desirable or efficient. It was discovered that the present baking powder recipe books did not contain recipes now used in the best homes, and that the indefinite instructions seemed of little value to cooks in using any kind of baking powder.

Therefore, it was quickly decided that the Ryzon Baking Book should be as much of an improvement over previous baking powder recipe books, as Ryzon, The Perfect Baking Powder, is an improvement compared with the old kinds of baking powder.

To this end an extensive campaign of advertising for practical home recipes was inaugurated, with an offer of prizes to secure the best possible home recipes in use, and Marion Harris Neil was engaged to supervise the work, adding thereto her store of tested recipes, together with her experience in compiling practical cooking manuals.

Thousands of good housekeepers in many States submitted their best and most original home recipes, from which a number of prize selections were made for the Ryzon Baking Book by expert judges.

The Master Recipes were obtained from the prominent cooking experts whose names they bear, and many excellent and unusual private recipes were contributed from homes where they have been in practical use.

Every one of the prize selections was carefully tested by actual baking, and doubly checked by the Ryzon Service Staff, before being included in the Ryzon Baking Book.
Modern recipes and the cooking schools now use standard level spoon measurements for baking powders. Much of the so-called “bad luck” which untrained cooks experience in the use of all baking powders is caused by inaccurate measurements and the use of too much or too little for perfect baking results.

GENERAL DIRECTIONS FOR USE OF RYZON

One level teaspoonful (\(\frac{1}{2}\) oz.) of Ryzon to each cup (\(\frac{1}{4}\) lb.) of flour is sufficient for making cakes in which eggs are used.

Two level teaspoonfuls (\(\frac{3}{4}\) oz.) of Ryzon to each cup (\(\frac{1}{2}\) pint) of flour are sufficient for best results in making biscuits, muffins, waffles.

Two and one-half level teaspoonfuls (\(\frac{5}{8}\) oz.) to each cup (\(\frac{1}{4}\) pint) of buckwheat flour, graham flour, whole grain flours and meals, are required when eggs are not used.

Each Ryzon recipe gives accurate level measurements and weights of ingredients, with directions which, if carefully followed with the use of Ryzon, The Perfect Baking Powder, will insure perfect home baking.
The Perfect Baking Powder, is the result of years of research work by the General Chemical Company. This Company's staff includes some of the most eminent men in chemistry. For many years it has been producing the materials used by Baking Powder manufacturers and has been particularly well situated to understand the needs of the industry and to direct its research work along lines most likely to yield important results.

Baking Powder is a necessity. A good baking powder is essential to the comfort and convenience of every home. The solving of the baking powder problem, to produce for the American people and for the world a "perfect baking powder,"—one which should be not only efficient and practical, but should also fulfill all desirable requirements from the standpoint of purity and health,—is an achievement of which any company of scientific men might feel proud, especially when they are able to offer Ryzon, with all of its improvements over old-fashioned baking powders, at a lower price than usually asked for high grade baking powder.

After having perfected Ryzon to their own satisfaction, officers of the General Chemical Company indirectly sent samples of Ryzon to the most famous cooking experts. They were asked to try this new baking powder,—which then had no name,—and to say unreservedly what they thought. The replies were uniformly that this was the most wonderful baking powder ever tried, that less was required than of other baking powders, and that the results were perfect.

Finally, this new baking powder was sent to one of America's greatest food authorities, who was asked for his frank opinion of it from a health standpoint. He wrote, in reply, that "Ryzon has qualities of excellence and physiological relations which entitle it to the confidence and patronage of the public." His opinion has been confirmed by other leading food experts of America.

This is the reason for Ryzon, which is a guaranteed American pure food product of superior quality and efficiency, at a fair price.
THE PRIZE WINNERS OF THE RYZON RECIPE CONTEST

COMPARATIVE ECONOMY OF RYZON

AT its price Ryzon is less expensive to use than other baking powders sold at less per pound.

You buy baking powder by the pound, but it is generally used by measurement. Ryzon contains 110 or more, averaging about 114, level teaspoonfuls to the pound. Other phosphate baking powders average about 95 level teaspoonfuls to the pound. We have found no other phosphate powder to contain as many as 100, and some brands of the calcium phosphate type have been found to contain only 88, level teaspoonfuls to the pound. Cream of tartar powders show a wider variance, with an occasional lighter measuring pound approaching Ryzon in number of level teaspoonfuls contained, but the average pound of cream of tartar powder contains considerably fewer level teaspoonfuls than a pound of Ryzon.

Furthermore, less Ryzon is required by measurement for equal efficiency in baking, as $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ more, by measurement, of so-called cheaper baking powders is ordinarily used to get less perfect baking results than easily obtained with Ryzon used as directed on the labels or in the Ryzon recipes.

Hence, Ryzon is more economical in use, as well as superior in quality and baking results.

SAVING EGGS BY USING RYZON

When more eggs are called for than you care to use, you can reduce the cost of a recipe by using $\frac{1}{4}$ level teaspoonful of Ryzon for each egg omitted. Often $\frac{1}{3}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ of the eggs are omitted in this way by those desiring economy.
RYZON LIBERTY BREAD—Special Recipe
By Mrs. Louise Naylor, Ryzon Service Staff

CHAPTER I

RYZON BREADS

RYZON LIBERTY BREAD is a direct response to the call from the United States Government's Food Administration for new breads to conserve wheat flour. We are glad to furnish this palatable, nutritious and economical recipe, which uses much less wheat flour than is customary, and is simple enough to be practical for use in every home. As a loaf bread it cuts without undue crumbling and retains moisture equal to breads in which a greater quantity of wheat flour is used.

The addition of the one egg makes it unusually suitable for children's luncheon, or bread and butter sandwiches with a tea.

RYZON LIBERTY BREAD
1 level cupful (6 ounces) corn meal.
½ cupful (¾ ounce) bran.
1 ¼ level cupfuls (6 ounces) white flour.
6 level teaspoonfuls Ryzon.
1 level teaspoonful salt.
2 level tablespoonfuls (1 ounce) shortening.
1 ½ cupfuls milk (¼ pint) or milk and water.
1 egg.

Sift together corn meal, white flour, Ryzon and salt; add bran, cut in shortening and mix thoroughly. Beat egg, add milk and mix with dry ingredients. Bake in a moderate oven thirty minutes.

This mixture may be baked as a loaf bread, as illustrated, or in gem pans for a hot bread.

Sufficient for one medium-sized loaf.

Note:—When using gas, light oven after loaf is put in, otherwise let bread stand for fifteen minutes before putting into a moderate oven.
RYZON BRAN BREAD

6 level teaspoonfuls Ryzon.
4 level cupfuls (1 pound) flour.
2 level tablespoonfuls (1 ounce) sugar.
1 level teaspoonful salt.
1 quart (6 ounces) bran.
2 tablespoonfuls (1 ounce) butter or lard.
1 egg.
2 cupfuls (1 pint) milk or water.
1 level cupful (6 ounces) sultana raisins.

Sift flour, sugar, salt and Ryzon into a mixing bowl, add bran, then add shortening and rub it in with the tips of the fingers. Beat up egg, add it with milk and raisins, and mix well. Divide into two small greased bread pans, and bake in a moderate oven for one hour. Currants may be substituted in place of the raisins.

Sufficient for two small loaves.

Bran adds nothing to the nourishment of the body, but it has another health function to perform which is most important. It resists the action of the digestive ferments and very materially assists in removing from the system poisons caused by the fermentation of food which cause many of the ills that flesh is heir to. By holding moisture and thus promoting intestinal secretions it affords a most useful laxative action to anyone of sedentary habit and has none of the ill effects of most medicines used for the purpose. Bran may be obtained in packages from the grocery, or in bulk from the feed store.

RYZON ALMOND AND RAISIN BREAD

1/2 cupful (3 ounces) brown sugar.
3/4 cupful (1 1/2 gills) hot water.
1/2 cupful (1 gill) molasses.
3/4 cupful (1 3/4 gills) milk.
3 level teaspoonfuls Ryzon.
1 level cupful (1/4 pound) flour.
2 level cupfuls (10 ounces) graham flour.
1/2 level teaspoonful baking soda.
1 level teaspoonful salt.
1 tablespoonful (1/2 ounce) melted butter.
3/4 cupful (2 ounces) seeded and chopped raisins.
1 level cupful (3/4 pound) blanched and chopped almonds.

Pour water over sugar, add molasses and milk. Mix flour sifted with Ryzon, flour, salt, and soda together, and stir them into milk mixture. Add butter, raisins and almonds, and mix well. Turn into a well-greased pan and bake in a moderate oven for one and one-half hours.

The graham flour is not sifted.

Sufficient for one medium-sized loaf.

2 level cupfuls (10 ounces) graham flour.
6 level teaspoonfuls Ryzon.
1 1/2 level teaspoonfuls salt.
1 egg.
1 tablespoonful molasses.
2 cupfuls milk and water (1 pint), or potato water.

Put into a bowl bread crumbs, graham flour, Ryzon and salt. Stir molasses into the milk and water and add to the dry ingredients, mixing thoroughly.

Bake in well-greased bread pans in a moderate oven until the loaves leave the sides of the pans and are a nice brown—about forty-five minutes.

Sufficient for two small loaves.

NOTE:—Left over or stale pieces of any bread may be thoroughly dried or toasted in the oven (often while other cooking is being done on top of the stove), cooled, and then ground fine through the meat chopper. These bread crumbs are useful for many things in place of flour, as in the above recipe, and may also be used to advantage to thicken meat gravies.

The water in which potatoes have been boiled will be found valuable for making breads and adds a certain amount of mineral nutriment much needed in our diet, but too often wasted.

This bread may be varied by adding raisins, nuts, dates, candied orange peel or figs, and half cupful sugar, if a sweet bread is desired.

RYZON RYE BREAD

2 1/2 level cupfuls (10 ounces) rye flour or meal.
1 1/2 level cupfuls (6 ounces) flour.
2 level tablespoonfuls (1 ounce) butter substitute.
6 level teaspoonfuls Ryzon.
1 level teaspoonful salt.
2 tablespoonfuls molasses.
1 1/2 cupfuls (1/4 pint), scant, milk or milk and water.

Into a bowl sift rye, flour, Ryzon and salt; add molasses and milk. Mix carefully, turn into a greased and floured bread tin and bake in a very moderate oven for about one hour.

Sufficient for one large loaf.

(See Recipe, page 14)

CHAPTER II

RYZON QUICK BREADS

Quick breads are delicious when fresh, and are so called to distinguish them from yeast breads, which require a longer time for making and baking.

Quick bread mixtures are either doughs or batters. Batter means "that which is battered or beaten"; dough means "that which is wet or moistened." A quick bread should be quickly mixed, and put into the oven at once. Doughs require a hotter oven than batters. Too great heat causes bubbles of gas or air to burst and run together.

Popovers are made light by the expansion of the liquid in them as it is changed to steam by the heat of the oven, the heat at the same time forming a crust, which keeps the steam from escaping. When done, popovers should be crisp, hollow inside, several times the height of the batter and well cooked throughout.

When griddle cakes are full of bubbles on the top, and brown on one side, they should be turned over and browned on the other side. If large bubbles rise immediately to the top of the cakes, the griddle is too hot. Never turn a griddle cake twice; a cake turned twice will be heavy and indigestible. Use a firm piece of beef suet on a fork to grease a griddle. Do not grease a soapstone griddle.

GOOD FLOUR AND HOW TO KNOW IT

Bread flour, made from hard spring wheat, rich in gluten, is more nutritious and makes the elastic dough necessary for producing light bread. It is known by its creamy white color, by its gritty feeling, by its capacity for absorbing water, and by its caking but slightly when squeezed in the hand. Pastry flour, made from soft or winter wheat, contains more starch than bread flour. It is used for pies, cakes, etc., but a good substitute may be made by sifting four tablespoonfuls of cornstarch or potato flour into each pint of bread flour. Always sift flour before measuring.

RYZON DELICIOUS POPOVERS

BY MARION HARRIS NEIL, AUTHOR OF “CANNING, PRESERVING AND PICKLING”

1 level teaspoonful Ryzon.
1 cupful (4 ounces) flour.
1/2 level teaspoonful salt.
2 eggs.
1 cupful (1/2 pint) milk.

Mix flour, Ryzon, and salt together and sift them twice into a basin. Beat up eggs and add them gradually with milk to flour mixture; rub through a strainer or sieve and divide into hot, well-greased popover molds. The molds should be a little more than one-half full. Bake for thirty-five minutes in a moderate oven. The oven door should be kept closed until the mixture has a firm enough crust to keep its shape when the door is opened. These popovers come out of the oven rich brown puffs which may be eaten hot with sugar and cream, with maple syrup, or with butter and berries. When these are filled with whipped cream, custard, or blanc mange, they make an excellent dessert.

Sufficient for twelve popovers.

Place the buns on greased baking tins with the sides which have the holes downwards. Brush over with a little milk and sprinkle with fine sugar. Bake in a hot oven for twenty minutes.

Any preferred preserve may be used in place of the marmalade.

1 level teaspoonful Ryzon.
2 level cupfuls (1/2 pound) flour.
1/4 cupful (1 1/2 ounces) corn meal.

Sufficient for sixteen individual waffles.

Waffles are artistically shaped pancakes as to their constitution, and, like these, admit of interesting and even greater variations. Their name in Old French was waufre, which has developed into gaufré and gaufré. The word is related to the German Wabe, honeycomb, and as such would be derived from the shape of the waffle, which represents a large-celled honeycomb.
RYZON WAFFLES—Master Recipe

Master Recipe

RYZON WAFFLES

4 level teaspoonfuls Ryzon.
2 level cupfuls (3/4 pound) flour.
1/2 level teaspoonful salt.
2 eggs—separated.
1 1/2 cupfuls (3/4 pint) milk,
4 tablespoonfuls (2 ounces) melted butter.

Mix flour with Ryzon and salt and sift into bowl. Beat yolks of eggs, add butter and milk. Add this mixture gradually to dry ingredients, beating thoroughly. When well mixed fold in the stiffly beaten whites of eggs. Pour from a pitcher into the center of a hot, well-greased waffle iron. Serve with melted butter and maple syrup or with cinnamon and sugar. Other fat may be used in place of butter but the waffles will not brown as well.

Preparation of Waffle Iron:—Heat the iron on both sides thoroughly. Grease the iron with a piece of salt pork or a padded fork dipped into bacon drippings. Reverse the iron to distribute the fat evenly. Open, and fill the iron two-thirds full. Cover and cook about one minute on one side, then turn and cook a little longer on the other side.

This amount will fill waffle iron six times.

This recipe may be varied by substituting 3/4 cupful cold boiled rice in place of 1 cupful wheat flour, and in this way save flour for the government while still serving delicious waffles.

As a breakfast or luncheon dish waffles are well known. Equally welcome are the waffles served with hot chocolate or coffee in the afternoon, or for an after theatre supper, especially when the use of an electric waffle iron makes baking at the table possible.

RYZON PEA PANCAKES
BY FORECAST MODERN SCHOOL OF COOKERY

2 level cupfuls (1 pint) peas (dried).
2 egg whites.
3/4 cupful (2 ounces) flour.
1 cupful (3/4 pint) milk.
2 egg yolks.
Pepper.
3/4 level teaspoonful salt.
1 level tablespoonful (1/4 ounce) butter or fat.
1 level teaspoonful RYZON.

To make this recipe it is best to use the split pea, which can be secured either in bulk or package form. These peas cook in an hour's time after soaking.

When the peas are tender, put through a food chopper and mix the ingredients. A tablespoonful of this mixture placed on a hot griddle or frying pan makes a good-sized pancake.

If a richer pancake is desired than the one suggested in this recipe, one-quarter pound salt pork may be boiled and ground with the peas.

The residue strained from pea soup may be economically used for the above.

Sufficient for twelve pancakes.

RYZON FRENCH PANCAKES

3 level tablespoonsfuls (1 1/2 ozs.) potato flour.
2 level tablespoonsfuls (1 ounce) sugar.
5 eggs.
1 tablespoonful water.
1 cupful (3/4 pint) milk.
Apple or currant jelly.

Sift flour, RYZON, and sugar into a bowl, add eggs well beaten, water and milk, and beat for ten minutes. Grease well the inside of a small frying pan, and place it over a moderate fire. When it is sufficiently hot, pour in enough of the batter to cover the surface of pan. When cooked spread with jelly, and fold into rolls. Serve hot. They may be used as a dessert, sprinkled with powdered sugar, and a few drops of lemon juice.

Sufficient for ten pancakes.

Mix RYZON, corn meal, salt, and flour together, and sift them into a bowl. Beat up eggs, add milk, and combine the two mixtures. If liked, a tablespoonful of molasses may be added to the batter. Heat a griddle and grease it with a piece of fat. Pour the cakes on the griddle from a large spoon or from a pitcher. When the cakes are full of bubbles, turn with a broad knife, and brown the other side. Wipe griddle with a dry cloth and grease again after each baking. One of the eggs may be omitted, and 1/4 level teaspoonful RYZON added.

CHAPTER III
RYZON CAKES

Of all the different branches of cookery the making of cakes is undoubtedly the most popular.

It is practically impossible to buy cakes that are equal to well-made home-baked ones, and so they are always appreciated. The secrets of success are, care in following the recipe exactly, and attention to the simple rules of mixing and baking.

With all cookery, method and order are great points to be considered. Have everything in readiness before you begin to mix a cake, for it may be spoiled if you have to stop mixing or beating to prepare an ingredient. First study and set your recipes to hand. Put out measuring cups, boards, knives, egg beaters, flour sifters, pastry brushes, bowls, basins, cake tins, and scales and weights. Measure or weigh the quantities required. Pay attention to the oven and see that it is likely to be sufficiently hot by the time the cake is ready for it.

Then get ready the necessary cake tin or tins, and prepare them in a manner suited to the kind of cake to be made.

The measuring cup should hold one-half pint. All measurements are level. All materials are measured level, i.e., by filling spoon or cup more than full and leveling with the back of knife.

Flour, meal, sugar, baking powder, and spices are measured after one sifting and heaped into the measure lightly. This is of importance in making good cakes. Flour should not be shaken down into the measuring cup. Flours vary in thickening qualities, therefore the exact amount of liquid cannot always be given.

It is very important to have the flour dry, as damp flour would render any cake heavy.

There are three ways of mixing. Stirring, beating, and cutting or folding.

To stir:—Let the spoon touch the sides and bottom of the bowl and move it round quickly in circles of various sizes. Do not lift it out of the mixture, and work well against the sides.

To beat:—Tip the bowl to one side. Bring the spoon or fork quickly into the mixture and through it, take it out the other side and bring it over and down again scraping the sides well each time it goes in. It is important to keep the bowl of the spoon well scraped out during mixing. Beat hard and quickly.

To cut or fold:—Turn over the mixture with a spoon or knife and lift it up, folding in as lightly as possible. Do not stir or beat but mix very gently until quite blended.

To beat butter:—In beating butter to a cream, if very hard it can be slightly warmed in the oven or put into a hot bowl, but it must on no account be melted. The best method is to soften hard butter by putting it through the food chopper. The sugar may be heated and added to the butter.

Inferior or tainted butter should never be used for cakes. If butter is employed it must be good, sweet butter being the best. If the butter is very salt it will be better to wash it in cold water, and dry it in a floured cloth before using.

For many of the plainer cakes, and especially when baking for large families, or where expense has to be considered, a cheaper kind of fat may be substituted for butter. Lard, beef drippings, beef marrow, margarine, or one of the different vegetable fats now on the market will generally answer the purpose.

Eggs must be fresh and good but not necessarily new laid. Well-preserved eggs serve the purpose excellently. They should always be broken separately into a small cup or bowl before adding them to the mixture.

With regard to sugars—always brown sugar for rich cakes that you want dark in color. Use granulated sugar for other cakes except where otherwise stated, and always sift it before use.
Fruit must be thoroughly dried before being used if it has been necessary to wash it, and floured before adding to the mixture.

To free currants from stalks, put them in a colander, look them over carefully, and remove any stones. Rub the fruit, and the little stalks will fall through the holes if the colander is shaken. Sultanas will need picking, as the stalks are larger.

Seed raisins and cut them in halves.

Candied peel looks nicest and goes farthest if cut into thin strips instead of being chopped.

Almonds should be blanched. Pour boiling water upon them, leave them to soak for a few minutes, then rub off the skins and put them into cold water to whiten; dry, cut into thin strips or chop them.

Only the yellow part of the lemon rind should be grated and used. To obtain the juice of a lemon, first roll it backwards and forwards on a board to soften it. Then cut in halves, and squeeze out the juice with the back of a wooden spoon or on a lemon squeezer; strain before using.

Though there is no limit to the variety of cakes that can be made, the greater number may be classified under one of four general heads:

1. Pound Cakes:—As the name implies, the typical pound cake has equal weight of various ingredients, a pound to a pound of sugar, butter, eggs, flour, fruit, etc. Though this proportion is not always followed, a pound cake has always a considerable quantity of butter, eggs, and sugar. The usual method of mixing is, therefore, to beat the butter and sugar to a cream, then add eggs and flour alternately, beating the mixture well between each addition. Last of all, the fruit and flavoring are added. Much of the success of these cakes depends upon good beating so as to blend ingredients and to enclose as much air as possible. Pound cakes need very careful baking—a moderate and uniform heat of oven for a considerable time, then gradually decreasing heat is essential.

2. Plain Cakes:—These, containing as they do a smaller proportion of eggs and butter, are generally mixed by rubbing the shortening into the sugar, then the dry ingredients are mixed in and the whole made into a paste with beaten eggs and other liquids. These cakes are not made so moist as pound cake, and generally require rather quicker baking. Individual recipes may give individual ways of mixing.

3. Sponge Cakes:—The chief ingredients of the best quality of sponge cake are eggs and sugar; flour must be used, but its weight is relatively small. Strictly speaking, a sponge cake contains no butter, and for this reason can be given to invalids and children to whom butter after cooking would be indigestible.

The usual method of mixing is to beat the eggs and sugar until light and creamy, this is sometimes done over gentle heat; just before baking, the sifted flour and flavoring are carefully mixed in. If butter is used, it is first melted, and, when cool, but still liquid, added to the mixture. When baking, very moderate and yet uniform heat is required.

4. Gingerbreads:—See page 52.

The baking of cakes is one of the most difficult parts of cake making. No matter how carefully the mixture has been prepared, the success or failure of the cake will very much depend upon the proper regulation of the heat of the oven. Ovens require very close observance; some are inclined to burn at the bottom, while in others the top is the hottest part, and it is only by experience and careful watching that the faults and capabilities of individual ovens can be learned.

The most correct way of gauging the heat of an oven is with the thermometer. The degrees of heat would be nearly the following:

- From 400° to 450°—A hot oven.
- From 300° to 350°—A moderate oven.
- From 250° to 275°—A slow oven.

There are also one or two popular tests which may be applied by novices, such as the following: Sprinkle a little dry flour on a tin and place it in the oven. If there is sufficient heat to bake a cake, this will be brown in about five minutes. Or, put a piece of white paper in the oven, and if at the end of five minutes it is a good yellow color, the heat is moderate and suitable for most cakes.

After a very little experience the heat of the oven can easily be judged by simply feeling it with the hand.

A cake to be baked to perfection should rise evenly and be smooth on the top, and by the time it has been in the oven half its time a light brown crust should be formed. Owing to the variations in the heat of an ordinary oven, it is not always possible to arrive at this point of perfection; still, by careful manipulation, it may be aimed at.

When a cake rises in a cone in the center it shows that the oven has been too hot in the commencement, with the result that the sides of the cake become hardened with a crust before the mixture has had time to rise. If the cake seems inclined to rise at one side, it shows that the oven is hotter on one side than the other, and this fault may be obviated to a certain extent by turning the cake carefully during the baking. When a cake shows signs of becoming sufficiently brown before it is ready, it should be covered with a double fold of greased or wetted kitchen paper.

Be sure the cake is sufficiently cooked before removing it from the oven. Small cakes are ready if they feel firm when gently touched with the finger. Larger cakes should be tested by running a bright and heated skewer into the center of them. If the skewer comes out sticky the cake is not cooked enough, but if it is dry and undimmed the baking is finished. Cakes should be allowed to stand for two or three minutes before removing them from the tin; they will then come out more easily. They should be cooled on a wire stand or sieve or stood on end so that the air gets around the bottom and side. When cold, put into dry and air-tight tins.

RYZON BABA—First Prize Recipe
By MRS. PERCY DUVALL, Dower House, Rosaryville, Maryland

First Prize Recipe
RYZON BABA

The Baba is a cake of Polish origin. It was made known in France by Stanislas Leczinsky. The descendants of this King always ate the baba with a sauce made of sweetened wine mixed with one-sixteenth part of distilled water of tansy. So far as the judges know Mrs. Duvall's Ryzon Baba is the first one made with baking powder. First prize recipe for Ryzon Baba follows:

4 eggs—not separated.
1 1/2 level cupfuls (3/4 pound) sugar.
1/2 level teaspoonful salt.
1 1/2 cupfuls (3/4 pint) sweet milk.
3 level cupfuls (3/4 pound) flour.
2 level teaspoonfuls Ryzon.
1/2 level teaspoonful powdered mace.
1/2 cupful (1/4 pound) butter.

1/2 cupful (2 ounces) shredded candied citron peel.

SAUCE:
1 level cupful (1/2 pound) sugar.
1/2 cupful (1/2 gill) water.
1 wineglassful rum or 1/2 teaspoonful vanilla extract and 1/2 teaspoonful lemon extract.

FOR BABA:—Beat eggs and sugar together until very light, remove beater, add salt, milk, flour sifted with Ryzon, and mace, and add citron. Melt butter in a large turkshead baking pan (with a central opening). When melted, add butter carefully to batter, and pour batter into mold. Bake in a steady, fairly hot oven, for one hour, taking care to turn cake several times. This mixture is a thin batter and requires a slower oven than the usual “rusk.” When done, try it with a straw; if straw comes out clean, remove baba from mold onto plate on which it is to be served. Care should be taken that the cake mold is very well greased, especially the center "piece."

For Rum Sauce:—Put sugar and water into an enameled saucepan, bring to boiling point and boil until syrup spins a thread, or 218° F. by candy thermometer. Then add rum, or extracts, and cool slightly. Dip baba into syrup while it is hot, or ladle syrup over baba with spoon or broad knife, or brush on syrup. Fruit juice may be used in place of rum, or the following chocolate sauce may be used by those who prefer it to the rum sauce.

For Chocolate Sauce:—Put one level cupful sugar into a saucepan, add one cupful of milk, one-fourth cupful butter, and boil together until "half done," about ten minutes, but boil "hard," not gently. Add one-fourth cake (or one-half cake, if desired) chocolate, cut into fairly small pieces. Stand on side of stove until entirely melted, but do not boil again, as the delicate flavor of chocolate is lost by boiling. Add one-half teaspoonful vanilla extract, and pour over cake one spoonful at a time.

Sift powdered sugar over the slightly sticky top before carrying to table. If desired, the center may be filled with stewed fruits.

The baba mixture may be divided into two molds. The baba may also be used for a pudding. In this case the cake is saturated with rum sauce, or orange syrup, and served with another sauce over and around base. Thin custard or apricot sauce are appropriate sauces. When a baba has not been consumed fresh, it may be cut in slices, dipped in fruit juice, covered with a batter, and fried.

Sufficient for one large cake.

RYZON JELLY ROLL—Master Recipe

By Marion Harris Neil, Cookery Expert and Author of “Salads, Sandwiches and Chafing Dish Recipes,” etc.

JELLY ROLL HINTS

To roll up a Jelly Roll after baking, the following method will be found of assistance. Turn the roll out onto a clean cloth wrung out of very hot water, and roll it up in this. The cloth must, of course, be wrung out as dry as possible before the cake is turned out on it. After a little practice, you will find that you can roll up your Jelly Roll without a single crack.

Jelly Rolls are very popular as well as useful cakes. If kept in a cake box or an airtight tin they remain moist and fresh for a long time. They are nicer as a foundation for cake-puddings than sponge cakes.

Master Recipe

RYZON JELLY ROLL

3 eggs—beaten.
\(\frac{3}{4}\) cupful (6 ounces) sugar.
1 tablespoonful milk or cream.
1 level cupful (\(\frac{1}{2}\) pound) flour.
1\(\frac{1}{2}\) level teaspoonfuls Ryzon.
\(\frac{1}{4}\) teaspoonful vanilla extract.
1 level tablespoonful (\(\frac{1}{2}\) ounce) butter—melted.

Jam or jelly, slightly warmed.

First grease a jelly roll tin and line it with buttered paper, allowing paper to come a little above the rim of tin. Beat eggs until light, add sugar gradually, beat five minutes, add milk or cream, flour sifted with Ryzon, vanilla extract and butter. Spread mixture on prepared tin; bake in a quick oven for twelve to fifteen minutes, or until firm to touch.

Have ready sheet of paper sprinkled with sugar, and turn cake onto it. Quickly remove buttered paper and spread over with jam or jelly and roll up at once. Place on sieve or wire rack to cool. Jelly roll may be served hot as a pudding with custard sauce, or cut in slices and served cold.

Sufficient for eight persons.

One of the oldest kinds of light cakes that is still a universal favorite is the sponge cake.

The popularity of the sponge cake is due to its lightness and its high nutritive value, which makes it the confection par excellence for children, while it is easily handled without soiling the fingers. Fine hard-grained sugar produces the best sponge cakes; both the powdery and the coarse forms should be avoided. Suitable sugar mixes readily with the eggs; the fine grains assist in breaking and creaming the yolks. Coarse sugar has a tendency to remain crystalline in the sponge batter, and the baked cakes generally show specks on top in consequence. This is most noticeable in those sponge cakes that are made by beating the yolks and whites separately.

Flour of a fairly soft nature is best for these cakes, and should be sifted before using, to make light mixing easy without toughening the batter.

RYZON FILLINGS AND ICINGS

CAKES should be made to look attractive as well as to taste good. Many cakes are better left in their simple state without any decoration, and when this is the case particular care should be taken with the baking to avoid burning. In no circumstance should a cake be over-decorated.

One of the simplest forms of decoration is to spread a thin coating of jelly, preserve or honey over the cake, and then to sprinkle with browned or colored almonds, cocoa nut, pistachio nuts, tiny candies or a mixture of these. This is very suitable for the sides of cakes where the top only is iced.

When a more elaborate decoration is wanted, one of the various icings may be used. With a large cake it is usual to ice the top only, and then to decorate with nuts, preserved fruits, bonbons or frosting in two colors put through an icing bag.

In the decorating of tiny fancy cakes there is a wide range for individual taste and arrangement. With the help of fillings, icings and decorations, the variety of pretty cakes which can be made is endless.

Hard white icing is usually prepared with egg whites, a few drops of lemon juice and confectioners' sugar. The dull appearance of this icing is due in many instances to insufficient beating and to its containing too much sugar. The whites should be free from yolks, and all utensils should be scrupulously clean, as the last spot of grease is sufficient to make the icing heavy.

Glacé icing may either be poured over the cakes, or the cakes may be dipped into it. If a large cake is to be iced, put it on a wire stand placed on a sheet of white paper, and pour over enough icing to cover the top only, or the top and sides as desired. Arrange any decoration on the cakes while the icing is still soft.

Butter icing must be allowed to become quite cold and hard before using. In hot weather the bowl containing the icing should be placed on ice or put in a cool place. If a large plain cake is to be iced, it is usual to split it once or twice, and put a layer of the icing between. Spread a thin coating of the icing on the top and sides of the cake, and put most of the icing into a forcing bag, with a large tube on the end of it. Force out the icing on the cake, and do it as quickly as possible before the heat of the hand has time to soften the icing.

Mix fruit, spices, sugar, almonds, and other egg well beaten. Shape a piece of the matzoth crust into an oval on the hand, place some of the fruit mixture on it, cover with a top piece of crust, shape carefully, and sprinkle with meal. Fry in smoking hot fat or hot oil. Drain and serve with clarified sugar. Sufficient for nine grimslichs.

To Clarify Sugar:—Put two cupfuls sugar into a saucepan; add two cupfuls of water and bring slowly to boiling point; then remove scum from surface. Put on lid, and boil four minutes to allow the condensing steam to clear any crystals of sugar from sides of pan. Boil gently twenty-five minutes. Remove from fire and pour it in a steady stream over the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs. Return to pan and wait until albumen of eggs coagulates and rises to surface, when all impurities will be removed and syrup left perfectly clear.

Madelines are cakes of great reputation in France. The Madelines of Commercy had a special local reputation, the consequence mainly, it was reported, of the admiration which a Polish King manifested for them when he traveled in France, but this local reputation was more probably the result of the accident that a Madame Perrotin de Barmond had a cook who made very good madelines, and as her name happened to be Madeline Paumier, she was credited locally, and quite unduly, with the invention of the cakes.

Gingerbread is probably one of the oldest forms of cake known. It has certainly been known since the fourteenth century, when it was made and sold in Paris. It was formerly made of rye flour kneaded with ginger and other spices, and sweetened with honey. In some parts of Europe, gingerbread is still made in larger or smaller quantities, and baked in large blocks to be sold by weight. These are made with white or light brown dough mixed with honey and glucose. They are of a very light spongy texture, quite different from that made in this country.

Chapter V

Ryzon Pastry, Pies, Shortcakes, Tarts and Tartlets

"Cut and come again,
The sirup upward springing,
While my life and taste remain,
To thee my heart is clinging;

Other dainties fade,
The newest oft the fleetest,
But of all the pies now made
The apple pie is still the sweetest."

Pastry making supplies plenty of material for study, and indeed, when carried to perfection, is almost a fine art. A start should be made with the plainer kinds of pastry, and especially those in which the fat is well mixed with the flour before the rolling begins, such as Short Paste. When those have been thoroughly mastered, the more difficult kinds may be attempted. There are several kinds of fat which can be used for pastry making, such as butter, lard, drippings, oil, clarified fat, margarine, and various kinds of vegetable fats now on the market.

Butter is the best to use for all the finer kinds of pastry, but it must be carefully chosen and free from taint of any kind.

The very best butter must be used for making puff pastry. When a more economical pastry is wanted, good drippings, lard or margarine may be used, or a mixture of lard and butter is good. Good crust made with drippings is one of the most wholesome kinds of pastry for children. Shredded suet is used principally for making boiled pastry, the fat taken from the kidney being the best, and the beef suet preferred to mutton.

Water is usually the only liquid required for mixing the pastry. It must be as cold as possible, and in hot weather a piece of ice should be added to it. The exact amount of water to use is not always given in the recipes, as so much depends on the consistency of the fat used, and also upon whether the flour is a very dry kind or not. It will generally be found that the finer the flour the more water it will require. In the richer kinds of pastry a beaten egg or the yolk of an egg is used together with a little water.

Be careful that all utensils used, such as baking board, rolling-pin, basins, spoons, etc., are particularly clean and cool. The board should be smooth and perfectly flat. A marble slab is always to be preferred to a wooden board, as it is so cool and level. The rolling-pin should also be smooth and not too heavy. Handle it very lightly.

Clean and cool hands are always imperative. Those who have very warm hands should mix the pastry as much as possible with a knife.

Make the pastry in a cool place, not in a hot kitchen. The colder pastry is kept during the making, the lighter it will be, because it will contain more air. Cold air occupies much less space than hot. The colder the air the greater, consequently, will be its expansion when put into a hot oven. The paste must be handled and rolled lightly. Heavy rolling and handling expels the air. Never allow pastry to stick to the baking board, but lift it occasionally on the rolling-pin and dust a little flour underneath. If the rolling-pin sticks to the pastry, dust a little flour over it, and brush it off again lightly with a small brush kept for the purpose.

In making short crust, cut the butter or fat into the flour with a knife, then rub the shortening lightly into the flour with the tips of the fingers, and do not use more water than is necessary in mixing it. It is a common mistake to use too much water; to do so deprives the paste of its shortening.
Short paste is the best for children and people of weak digestion; the flour in it, being more thoroughly incorporated with the fat, gets better cooked. It is also more capable of mastication than flaky crusts, which are liable to be swallowed in flakes.

Puff paste is a kind of fine sandwich. There should be a certain number of layers of dough and layers of butter. Take every care, therefore, to prevent the butter breaking through the dough. The manufacture of this pastry requires patience, because if it is not properly cooled between the turns, the friction of rolling will melt the butter and cause it to smear into the dough.

However well the pastry may be made, success will not be attained unless the oven is rightly heated; the very lightest crusts will be totally spoiled in the baking if this important point is not carefully attended to. If the oven is not very hot the fat will melt and run out of the pastry before the starch grains in the flour burst; consequently, they cannot afterwards expand, however hot the oven may be made; and in this way the paste will become heavy.

Take great care that the oven is hot when the paste is put into it. The heat of the oven may be tested with a thermometer or by putting into it a small piece of the pastry. If this piece of pastry browns fairly quickly, the oven may be considered hot enough. For puff pastry, the thermometer should register about 340° F. to begin with and when the pastry is well risen heat may be reduced to 325° F.

For meat pies about 300° F. will be hot enough, and for the plainer kinds of pastry the temperature may be still a little lower.

There is so much difference in ovens, that the hottest part of one may be the coolest of another. The oven door should be opened and closed as gently as possible, and not oftener than is necessary. Watch the paste carefully that it does not take too dark a color. If it becomes too brown before it is sufficiently cooked, cover it over with a double piece of paper that has been slightly sprinkled with water.

If the pastry is not to be used at once when taken from the oven, allow it to cool slowly in a warm kitchen. When light pastry is transported at once to a cold larder, or pantry, it is very apt to become heavy.

If any paste is left over do not bake it simply because it is made; scraps will come in nicely for little pies, entrees, savories, or fried for decoration; they are always useful to have on hand. Keep in the ice box.

Some cooks frequently, and with excellent effect, introduce various flavorings into their crusts, mixing some with the addition of lemon juice, while giving to others a delicate and very agreeable gout by means of very finely chopped parsley, onion, shallot, thyme, bayleaf, or even mushrooms. Or in the case of pastry for sweet dishes (it may be sweetened or not, just as individual inclination guides) grated lemon or orange rind, spice of any kind preferred, grated nuts, or a judicious addition of a suitable extract, such flavoring being particularly effective in connection with suet or butter crust for steamed or boiled puddings.

Another way to find the right heat for pastry is to lay a piece of white paper in the oven, if it browns quickly the oven is hot enough; it should not be so hot that the pastry will "catch" quickly before it is risen, or before the contents of a pie or tart are cooked.

To prevent this a piece of greased paper may be laid lightly on the top; if the oven is very fierce, it may be slightly damped.

Pastry should never be baked in an oven in which meat is being roasted or with any other dish which generates steam, as the moist heat would be apt to destroy the crispness of the pastry.

Ovens in which heat comes from the bottom are decidedly the best for either pastry or cakes; but no one should expect to bake well in an oven which they do not thoroughly understand.

2 eggs.

Cover matzoths with water, soak for fifteen minutes and press dry. Heat level of a tablespoonful of butter or lard. Add level tablespoonful of Ryzon, 1/4 cupful (1 1/4 ounces) matzoth meal, sugar, Ryzon, salt, and eggs well beaten. Mix well, and press into a greased pie plate with the hands as it is impossible to roll this pastry. Have pastry one-fourth inch thick.

RYZON SHORT PASTE

2 level teaspoonfuls Ryzon.
4 level cupfuls (1 pound) flour.
1/2 level teaspoonful salt.
1/2 cupful (4 ounces) butter or lard.
Cold water.

This is the easiest form of pastry making, and it is best to learn the art of making this first thoroughly before going on to the puff or, as some people call it, flaky pastry.

Sift Ryzon, flour and salt into a basin, add butter or lard and cut it into small pieces in the flour with a knife, then rub it in with the tips of the fingers until it is all crumbled like bread crumbs.

Work into it a little cold water, getting it to a stiffish paste that can be rolled easily without either sticking to the board or the rolling-pin. The quantity of water needed depends a good deal on the flour and on the temperature; for the above, about one-half cupful of cold water is a fair average, though in cold weather, and with some flours, it may take nearly twice as much.

This crust must be rolled out at once to the thickness required, for if rolled too much it becomes heavy.

For a richer crust take two cupfuls of flour, one cupful of butter, one teaspoonful of Ryzon, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of lemon juice, the beaten yolk of one egg, and enough cold water to moisten it.

Sift flour into a basin with Ryzon and salt, add butter and chop it in fine with a knife, then rub the fat into the flour by crumbling it very lightly with the tips of the fingers, not by pressing and rolling between the palms of the hands, as is a common practice.

Add yolk of egg, lemon juice, and the water slowly and gradually as the quantity depends so much on the fineness of the flour; the finer the latter, the more water will it take up.

It is easy to tell when sufficient water has been added, for when most of the liquid has been put in, the dough will cling together in little rolls, which on being pressed with the finger will not only cling together but will gather to them any loose flour there may be round them; as long as there is the least crumbliness in the dough when pressed, more liquid is wanted.

When properly mixed, the dough can be gathered into a ball, and used to wipe the mixing bowl out, like a cloth.

Make it into a neat oblong shape on a floured baking board and press it out gently but firmly at first with the roller, then roll it out with quick short rolls to the right thickness, being always careful to stop the roller just short of the edges of the paste. Roll it on the one side only, and be careful that it does not stick to the board or roller, keeping both these lightly floured, but do not overdo this flouring, as over-flouring, like over-rolling, will make the pastry hard and tough. To lift the paste right off the board, turn the upper end over the rolling-pin, and wind it up like a shade, unrolling it again in the same way. This saves dragging it out of shape.

This pastry is sometimes called Biscuit Paste, and it is suitable for pies, tarts, tartlets, puffs, biscuits and many fancy sweets.

Sufficient for three pies.

RYZON CHOUX PASTE

1 level teaspoonful Ryzon.
1 level cupful (1 1/4 pound) flour.
1 cupful (1/4 pint) water.
4 tablespoonfuls (2 ounces) butter.
2 level tablespoonfuls (1 ounce) sugar.
Pinch of salt.
1/2 teaspoonful vanilla extract.
4 eggs.

Sift flour, which should be of the finest quality and put it in a cool part of the oven to dry. Pour water into a small saucepan, add butter, sugar, and salt, and bring to the boil, but do not let mixture reduce in quantity. Add vanilla, and flour sifted with Ryzon, and stir these well together over the fire with a wooden spoon, until the paste is compact and dry, and does not adhere to the pan or spoon.

This is called a "pañada." It should not be over-cooked, or it will become oily.

Remove saucepan from the fire, and add eggs, one at a time, beating each one in very thoroughly. Keep the paste at a medium thickness, not too soft, not too stiff, and only using the fourth egg if necessary. If the paste is too stiff, it will not rise properly; and if too soft, it will spread and lose its shape. Cool before using. This pastry is suitable for cream puffs, éclairs profiteroles, beignets, and various fancy cakes.

For éclairs, the mixture must be put into a forcing bag with a tube and squeezed out of this in straight pieces about one-half inch in diameter, and three and one-half to four inches in length; for profiteroles and cream puffs, in little mounds varying from the size of a pea to that of a small mushroom; and for beignet soufflés, in short lengths about one inch.

In making éclairs, hold the bag obliquely to the baking tin. Let the end of the piece of paste rest on this, and continue forcing until it is long enough, drawing the bag at the same time slightly backwards. Then cut off the paste close to the tube, and go on to the next, laying down the pieces of paste about two inches apart, so as to allow room for rising.

For cream puffs and profiteroles, the bag must be held perpendicularly, the tube to begin with almost touching the baking tin, and then so far raised to allow the mixture to be deposited in little heaps of the size required. As each heap is finished, disengage the bag, not by raising it, but by giving it a jerk and a twist. The little profiteroles for soup require a very small bag and tube as the heaps of paste for these should not be much larger than a pea.

Éclairs and puffs should be baked in a moderate oven until well risen, crisp, and of a pale fawn color. They should be brushed over with a little beaten egg and milk, before baking, to give them a glaze.

They rise a great deal and get quite hollow.

Éclairs and ordinary sized puffs will take from thirty to forty minutes. Just before they are required, a hole large enough to admit the tube in a forcing bag may be made in each with a sharp knife, and they may be filled with custard, whipped cream or preserves. Sufficient for 12 puffs.

RYZON PUFF PASTE
2 cupfuls (1 pound) butter.
4 level cupfuls (1 pound) flour.
½ level teaspoonful salt.
Cold water.
1 egg yolk.
1 tablespoonful lemon juice.
3 level teaspoonfuls Ryzon.

This is the most elaborate and expensive of the flaky pastes, and both time and some dexterity are required in its manufacture.

Weigh butter, and let it lie in ice cold water for some time before using it.

Chill flour and sift it onto a baking board or into a basin, scoop a hollow in the center, put in salt, dissolved in one tablespoonful of cold water, yolk of egg well beaten, lemon juice and just as much ice-cold water as is required to produce, without much kneading, a smooth, workable, but rather firm dough, of which no trace should adhere to baking board. Work butter in the cold water until quite malleable, yet not unduly soft, squeeze from it all moisture in a clean cloth, and pat it between the hands into a flat square cake. The butter should be as nearly as possible of the same consistency as the paste, as if it is softer it will get rolled into it, and if harder it will break through it. Roll out paste to a little more than double the size of the slab of fat, and about one-fourth of an inch thick, lay the latter one-half, fold the other over, and place in refrigerator for thirty minutes.

Now press paste across in three or four places with the roller, roll into a long strip, being careful that the butter does not break through. Sprinkle one-half teaspoonful of Ryzon on pastry each time it is rolled out. When butter melts in the oven the powder will effervesce and thus raise, or puff up the pastry more readily. Now fold pastry exactly in three, press down the folds, and lay the pastry aside in a cool place for fifteen minutes at least. This is called giving the pastry one "turn," and seven of these is the number usually required for puff pastry.

The next time the pastry is rolled, place it with the joins at your right-hand side, and open ends towards you. Give it two "turns" this time, and again set it in a cool place for at least fifteen minutes. Repeat this until the pastry has had six rolls in all, then double the pastry instead of folding it in three, and finally roll it out to the desired size and thickness.

The object of the cooling between the rolls is to keep the butter and paste in the distinct and separate layers in which it is the function of the rolling and folding to arrange them, and on which the lightness of the paste depends.

In rolling, keep the pressure of the two hands as even as possible. If the strip of paste is inclined to become curved, this shows that you are pressing more on rounded side than on the other.

The great art in making puff pastry is to keep the butter from escaping, which it will do if the paste is too soft, or is rolled out too thinly, or not rolled out regularly. If the paste is not kept flat and even in the rolling it will not rise properly in the baking, but will have tough, hard streaks through it.

The oven for puff pastry should be hot, but not fierce, the door kept shut until the paste is set, and, after baking, the pastry ought not at once to be consigned to a cold place, but allowed to cool quite gradually.

Puff pastry is suitable for vol-au-vent, patties, pies, and many fancy dishes.

RYZON FLAKY PASTRY

2 level teaspoonfuls Ryzon.
4 level cupfuls (1 pound) flour.
1 level teaspoonful salt.
½ cupful (4 ounces) butter.
½ cupful (4 ounces) lard.
2 tablespoonfuls lemon juice.

Ice Water.

Divide shortening into four equal portions. Sift flour, Ryzon, and salt into a bowl, add one portion of the fat and rub it lightly into flour. Mix to a stiff paste with lemon juice and a little ice-water. Turn out onto floured baking board, roll out to an oblong piece, and distribute a second installment of the fat in small knobs over it, to within one-fourth inch of edge. Dredge a very little flour over, fold evenly in three, press edges together with rolling-pin to exclude the air, and lay away in a cold place, or in the refrigerator for ten minutes. Repeat processes with the chilling intervals until fat is used up, roll out to the requisite thickness, and use for pies or tartlets. Sufficient for three pies.

RYZON RAISED PIE CRUST

½ cupful (4 ounces) butter or lard.
1 cupful (½ pint) hot water.
1 level teaspoonful Ryzon.
4 level cupfuls (1 pound) flour.
1 level teaspoonful salt.

Put butter or lard and water into small saucepan, bring to a boil, but do not let mixture reduce in quantity. Sift Ryzon, flour and salt into a bowl and make a well in the center of the mixture. Pour in hot liquid, mixing first with a wooden spoon or a knife, as it is rather hot, then take the hand and mix into a compact paste.

Turn out on a floured baking board, and knead lightly and quickly until free from cracks.

This paste must be used while warm for making raised pies of pork, or mutton. See page 71.

Prize Recipe

RYZON PIE CRUST AND COOKIES IN ONE

BY MRS. R. F. FINK, WHITE PLAINS, N. Y.

4 level teaspoonfuls Ryzon.
4 level cupfuls (1 pound) flour.
2 level cupfuls (1 pound) sugar (scant)
½ cupful (4 ounces) butter.
3 eggs.
½ cupful (3½ ounces) milk.
2 teaspoonfuls lemon extract.

Sift flour and Ryzon onto a board and add sugar. Chop and rub butter through dry ingredients, and when well mixed make a large cavity in the center; place eggs therein. With a knife proceed to partly mix eggs with flour, then add milk and extract, being careful not to let the liquid flow off the board. Continue folding in flour into liquid with knife until dough can be kneaded by hand. When dough is well kneaded, cut a piece off, roll out and line a buttered pie pan with it. Sprinkle the dough in pan with a slight dusting of flour; this helps to absorb the moisture of whatever fruit is used.

With rolling pin as a guide, cut narrow strips of rolled out dough, and lay them crosswise at equal intervals across the pie and over the fruit. Bake in a moderate oven.

COOKIES

From trimmings left from pie crust, cookies can be made by kneading the pieces together, and rolling out again.

If several kinds of cookies are desired, such as cocoaanut, peanut or raisin, divide the dough in three parts. When the dough is partly rolled out, sprinkle well with nuts or raisins, and roll them into crust, and continue rolling until the pastry is desired thickness. Cut dough in any shape desired. Lay on greased tins and bake in a moderate oven until light brown. These cookies will keep crisp indefinitely, if kept in an air-tight tin.

Thus you have pie and cookies from the same dough. If desired, the dough may be kept in a bowl in the refrigerator for a week, or even longer, and thereby be ready for use at a moment's notice. Keeping in the refrigerator improves paste. Sufficient for three pies.

RYZON SPICED PASTRY

2 level teaspoonfuls Ryzon.
4 level cupfuls (1 pound) flour.
½ level teaspoonful salt.
1 level teaspoonful powdered cinnamon.
1 level teaspoonful powdered nutmeg.
½ level teaspoonful powdered mace.
1½ cupfuls (12 ounces) butter or lard.
2 eggs.
Juice of 1 lemon.
4 level tablespoonfuls (2 ounces) sugar.
Cold water.

Sift flour, Ryzon, salt and spices onto a baking board. Make a hollow in center, put in shortening, broken into small pieces, and incorporate eggs well beaten, strained lemon juice, sugar and enough water to make stiff paste. The flour should be worked in from the sides, using a knife. Knead lightly, roll out into a long even strip, fold in three, turn half way round and roll out again, again fold in three, and roll out as before, and leave in a cold place for one hour before use.

Use for pie, tarts, tartlets, etc.

RYZON HOT WATER PASTE

2 tablespoonfuls (1 ounce) butter or lard.
3 tablespoonfuls boiling water.
\( \frac{3}{4} \) level teaspoonful salt.
1 level teaspoonful Ryzon.
1 level cupful (4 ounces) flour.

Beat butter to a cream, add boiling water and stir until dissolved, then add salt, Ryzon and flour. Mix and cool before using.

RYZON VOL-AU-VENT

Ryzon puff pastry. See page 57.
1 beaten egg.
Filling.

A vol-au-vent is one of the most recherché dishes of French cuisine, and one which the American cook is somewhat afraid of attempting. However, if once the making of puff paste has been mastered, the making of the pastry case itself should not present much difficulty. The puff pastry should only have had six turns for a vol-au-vent case. Roll out the pastry very evenly to about three-fourths inch in thickness and let it rest for a few minutes before cutting, to allow for shrinking. Then take a round or oval cutter the size required, and lay it on the top of the pastry, keeping it one-half inch from the edge in order to have a perfectly even piece of paste. Then cut round with a sharp pointed knife, holding the knife slanting outwards from the cutter so as to make the lower edge of the pastry slightly wider in circumference than the upper. Now remove the cutter, and place the cut piece of paste on a wetted baking tin with the under side uppermost. During the baking the upper part of the vol-au-vent will shrink in width and become the same size as that which rests on the tin. Now brush over the top of the case with the beaten egg, and with a sharp knife or cutter mark a smaller round on the top, which can be removed afterwards to form the lid. Score the top across lightly with a knife, and pierce the pastry through to the tin two or three times. Then bake in a hot oven for forty minutes. When a nice color and well risen, remove the vol-au-vent from the oven, lift off the little lid of pastry, and with a fork scoop out all the soft paste from the center, being careful not to break the edges. The case should not be filled until just before serving.

The filling is the most important part of the vol-au-vent.

The foundation of this is a rich sauce of some kind, either brown or white, with a variety of different garnishes, such as small quenelles, mushrooms, truffles, small pieces of sweetbreads, chicken, veal, rabbit, etc., or if it is a fish vol-au-vent, quenelles of fish, small fillets of fish, pieces of lobster, oysters, crab meat, mussels, etc. The garnish must always be prepared and cooked beforehand and then made thoroughly hot in the sauce before being put into the pastry case. This dish is always served hot as an entrée, entremet or savory.

A vol-au-vent can also be made sweet by filling with a good compote or purée of fruit and whipped and sweetened cream.

RYZON ONE-TWO-AND-THREE PIE CRUST

1 level teaspoonful Ryzon.
1 level cupful (\( \frac{3}{4} \) pound) sifted flour.
\( \frac{3}{4} \) level teaspoonful salt.
2 tablespoonfuls (1 ounce) lard or butter.
3 tablespoonfuls ice-water.

Sift the flour, salt and Ryzon together; add butter or lard and cut in with a knife, then rub it in lightly with the fingers, add water, mix and use. Sufficient for one pie.

RYZON CHOPPED PASTRY

1 level teaspoonful Ryzon.
2 cupfuls (\( \frac{1}{2} \) pound) flour.
1 level tablespoonful sugar.
\( \frac{1}{4} \) teaspoonful salt.
1 cupful (\( \frac{1}{2} \) pound) butter.
1 egg.
Juice of \( \frac{1}{2} \) lemon.
5 tablespoonfuls cold water.

Sift flour, Ryzon, sugar and salt together into a basin, add butter, and chop it into flour mixture until well blended. Beat up egg, add strained lemon juice and water, and gradually mix into dry ingredients, chopping, not stirring, all the time. Roll out to a long, even strip, fold in three by bringing one end over the middle and lapping the other end over. Put it away in a cool place for ten minutes. This is called giving the pastry a turn. Roll and fold the pastry again and roll out and use as required.

Use for pies, patties, etc.

QUITE the most interesting thing to many housewives today is the question of using left-overs, and this chapter is planned to be of assistance in offering suggestions. Some of our most attractive and nutritious dishes are made from a combination of foods remaining from one or more meals. When the family have tired of steaks, chops and roasts, a savory made dish will be welcome and also assist in reducing the high cost of living. The food value of egg or cheese as meat substitutes is well known, and the daily menu may be varied by their use.

2 pounds stewing lamb.
1 level teaspoonful salt.
3/4 level teaspoonful pepper.
12 small onions.
2 large carrots.
6 medium sized potatoes.
2 cupfuls (1 pint) milk.
3 level tablespoonfuls (1/4 ounce) flour.

For Paste:
2 level teaspoonfuls Ryzon.
2 level cupfuls (1/2 pound) flour.
2 tablespoonfuls (1 ounce) butter.
Milk.

For Pie:—Stew lamb for an hour or until it is easily pierced with a fork, add seasonings, onions peeled, carrots cut in quarters, potatoes cut in halves, and cook until tender. When done place all the meat and vegetables in a deep baking dish; add milk to stock in pan, thicken with flour moistened with a little water, then pour over meat and vegetables. Cover with paste made as follows and bake in a hot oven for twenty-five minutes. Serve at once.

For Paste:—Sift flour into a basin, cut and rub butter into flour, add Ryzon and make into a softish paste with milk. Turn out onto a floured baking board and roll three-fourths of an inch thick. Place on top of pie and bake. Sufficient for six to eight persons.
RYZON PORK PIE

3/4 lb. fresh pork.
1 level teaspoonful powdered sage.
2 level teaspoonfuls chopped onion.
1 level teaspoonful salt.

Wipe meat with a damp cloth and weigh it free from skin and bone. Cut it in small pieces, and season it with pepper, salt, sage and onion, mixing all well together.

Take Ryzon Raised Pie Crust, page 58, while hot and cut off a quarter of the quantity for the lid and decorations of the pie, wrap it up in paper, and keep it warm over steam. Roll out the other piece into a strip four inches wide and rather thin. Keep it even at the edges, and of an equal thickness all over. Wet along one side and one end with cold water or beaten egg. Bring the two ends together so as to form a ring, and make them overlap, pressing them well together. Then gather one of the sides together so as to form a bottom for the pie. Stand it up and make it into a good shape with the hands.

Fill up with meat mixture, pressing it down tightly into it. Make it level at the top, with just a small rim of pastry standing above it all the way round. Then take the piece of pastry that has been kept warm, roll it out thin, and cut out a round large enough to cover the top of pie. Wet round the edge of this with water, lay it on top of pie, and press the edges together.

Brush the pie all over, top and sides, with beaten egg, and make a hole in the top with the point of a knife. Pour in enough stock to one-half fill the pie. Roll out any trimmings of pastry that are left and cut out small leaves and decorate pie with them. Brush decorations also with egg, and place pie in a greased tin. Bake in a moderate oven until pastry is set and brown and the meat feels tender. Lift pie from the oven, and fill it up with some hot stock that will jelly when cold. If the stock is not stiff enough, dissolve a little powdered gelatine in it before using. Serve cold.

Sufficient for four persons.

RYZON POTATO SOUP

BY MRS. A. D. FRASER, BURLINGTON, WASH.

2 cupfuls chopped potatoes.
2 cupfuls (1 pint) water.
4 cupfuls (1 quart) sweet milk.
2 eggs.
1/2 level teaspoonful Ryzon.
1 level teaspoonful salt.
1 level tablespoonful (1/4 ounce) butter.
2 level tablespoonfuls (3/4 ounce) flour.
Pepper.

Peel and cook potatoes in water until tender. Add milk, make a smooth paste of the flour in which has been sifted the salt and Ryzon. Add butter and pepper. Boil up once and serve with croutons. If soup is too thick add more hot milk.

RYZON SMALL MUTTON PIES

For six pies make double the quantity of Ryzon Raised Pie Crust given on page 58, and three-fourths pound lean mutton.

Any scraps or trimmings of mutton may be used for making these little pies, but they must not be too fat. Cut them in small pieces, removing all skin, bone and gristle. Season with salt, pepper and grated nutmeg, and just moisten with water or gravy.

Put aside one-third of paste to keep warm, and divide rest into six equal-sized pieces. Form each of these pieces into a smooth ball, and then form them into little cases. This may either be done with the fingers or round a tumbler. Fill them with the meat, and then raise up the sides again with the hands. Roll out paste, which has been kept warm, and cut out rounds to make covers for the pies. Wet round edges, lay them over the pies with the wetted sides down, and press the two edges of paste firmly together.

Trim round with a pair of scissors, make a small hole in top of the pies, and brush them over with a little milk or beaten egg. Bake in a moderate oven for thirty minutes. When the pies are ready to be served they should be filled up with a little hot gravy. Sufficient for six pies.

3/4 pound bacon.
3 pork sausages.

Steam or bake apples and scoop out pulp, removing all pips and bits of core. Steam potatoes until tender, mash them, add Ryzon, seasonings, and apples, mix well and reheat.

Cut bacon into small pieces, fry it slowly so that the fat may run freely out, and fry in it the sausages.

Stir bacon fat and dice into the hot apple and potato, pile the latter in center of well-heated platter, arrange the sausages round, and serve.

RYZON RICE CORN PUDDING
BY MISS FRANCES R. DICKEY, SAN JUAN, PORTO RICO

1 level cupful (6 ounces) corn meal.
1 level tablespoonful rice.
1 level tablespoonful (½ ounce) butter.
2 cupfuls (1 pint) milk.
1 level teaspoonful Ryzon.
1 level teaspoonful salt.
2 eggs.

Boil rice in one and one-half cupfuls water for ten minutes. Scald half of the corn meal with the boiled rice. Add melted butter and well-beaten eggs. Then add milk and the remainder of the corn meal, together with the salt and Ryzon. Mix thoroughly and bake in moderate oven 40 minutes.

RYZON PLAIN OMELET

2 tablespoonfuls (1 ounce) butter.
3 eggs.
½ level teaspoonful salt.
¾ level teaspoonful pepper.
1 tablespoonful warm water.
½ level teaspoonful Ryzon.

Put one and one-half tablespoonfuls of the butter into an omelet pan, and allow it to melt slowly while preparing the eggs. Break eggs into a bowl; add seasonings, water and Ryzon. Beat eggs just enough to break them or they will become watery. Add remainder of butter. Pour mixture into the pan, then with a fork break the cooked surface in several places quickly, so that the eggs from the top may run to the bottom and cook; or loosen the omelet from the sides of pan letting the uncooked part run under. This must be done in the beginning so as not to make the surface uneven.

When the egg is cooked, but yet quite soft on the top, tilt the pan to one side, slip a spatula under one-half of omelet, and carefully roll the egg to the center. Let it cook a moment then slide it gently onto a hot dish, doubling it over. Garnish with a little parsley and serve at once.

Sufficient for two persons.

The water is added to lighten the eggs. Milk must never be used, as it would make the omelet heavy, and flour must on no account enter into its composition.

Mix and turn into a greased baking dish, cover with buttered crumbs and bake in a moderate oven for thirty minutes. Serve hot as a vegetable. Sufficient for four persons.

Serve hot, garnished with fried apples, or cold, lightly spread with mayonnaise dressing. The mixture may be served in ramekins.

So long as the proportion of flour and Ryzon remain constant, that of the other ingredients may be varied to suit taste and convenience.

This dish contains in itself a completely balanced ration. It is substantial enough for the dinner of a working man, delicate enough for the digestion of an invalid, simple enough for the plainest cook, and palatable enough to make the family call for more. It may be baked, boiled, or fried; eaten hot, cold or warmed over.

CHAPTER VIII

RYZON CAMP COOKERY

"'TIS SUBSTANTIAL HAPPINESS TO EAT"

No doubt the general principles of cooking are the same in the open air as in the kitchen. Yet a good cook might find it difficult to emulate the feats of some unpretentious woodsman, if he found himself in a dark forest, and he were told to get a hearty meal for a few hungry people as quickly as possible. Under such conditions fancy dishes are out of place.

The simplest food is the most appetizing when camping and the best to eat. It should be simply prepared.

When making tea at the camp the old household allowance of "one spoonful for each person and one for the pot" will not do; for some occult reason, more of the leaf is required in open air cookery. The same is true of coffee made in the woods, which has a different flavor from that made anywhere else.

Brook trout and potatoes may be rolled in wet paper and cooked in hot ashes. Fried fish are appetizing. Cleanse and wash the fish, remove the fins, and rub them well over with salt; roll the fish in a mixture of flour, salt and pepper and fry them in plenty of smoking hot fat.

Ham sandwiches and chicken sandwiches are both appetizing, but when one combines the two the result is delicious. Cream one-half cupful of butter, using a wooden spoon, add one cupful each of finely chopped cold boiled ham and cold boiled chicken; season to taste with salt and pepper and spread the mixture between slices of buttered bread.

N.B.—See other Camping Recipes; Surprise Muffins, page 19; Omelet, page 72; and Plum Duff page 66. Anything which is cooked in frying pan or kettle, can be managed over the camp-fire.

RYZON CORKSCREW BREAD

8 level cupfuls (2 pounds) flour.
4 tablespoonfuls (2 ounces) lard or drippings.
2 level tablespoonfuls RYZON.
2 level teaspoonfuls salt.
1 cupful (½ pint) milk.
1 cupful (½ pint) water.

Mix and sift flour, RYZON and salt into a bowl or pan, add lard or drippings, rub them into the dry ingredients, add milk and water gradually, and mix to a dough that can be handled easily. The dough must be rather stiffer than for biscuits baked in a pan.

Have a good bed of coals and the usual two forked sticks to hold the cooking utensils. Take a green stick an inch or more in diameter, and wind the dough around it. Rest the ends on the two forked sticks, and turn frequently until brown and crisp on all sides. Pull out the stick and the bread is ready for eating.

Sufficient for eight to ten persons.

Corkscrew bread is one of the camper’s delicacies.

RYZON CAMP CORN BREAD

2 level cupfuls (½ pound) flour.
2 level cupfuls (12 ounces) corn meal.
4 level teaspoonfuls RYZON.
1 level teaspoonful salt.
1 level teaspoonful sugar.
2 tablespoonfuls (1 ounce) lard or butter.
2 level tablespoonfuls egg powder.
6 tablespoonfuls evaporated milk.
1½ cupfuls (¾ pint) water.

Mix flour and corn meal together, add RYZON, salt, sugar, lard or butter, melted, egg powder mixed with evaporated milk and water. Mix well and pour into a well-greased pan. Bake in a moderate oven for forty minutes. If the campers have no oven, bake same as RYZON Camp Bread. Sufficient for eight to ten persons.

RYZON CAMP GRIDDLE CAKES

4 level cupfuls (1 pound) flour.
4 level teaspoonfuls RYZON.
1 level teaspoonful salt.
2 level tablespoonfuls egg powder.
½ cupful (1 gill) evaporated milk.
1½ cupfuls (¾ pint) water.
Butter and maple syrup.
Mix flour, RYZON, salt and egg powder and sift into a bowl, add evaporated milk and water and beat to a creamy batter. Do not have the batter thin. Fry in a hot frying pan, which has been greased with a piece of pork fat. Serve hot with butter and maple syrup. Sufficient for twenty cakes.

N. B.—See Master Griddle Cake Recipe on page 25.

RYZON CAMP POT PIE
Fresh meat or game.
Potatoes.
Onions.
Salt and pepper.
Sliced bacon or salt pork.

For Dumplings:
1 ½ level cupfuls (6 ounces) flour.
3 level teaspoonfuls RYZON.
1 level teaspoonful salt.
1 level teaspoonful (½ ounce) shortening.
¾ cupful (1 ½ gills) water.

Cut the game or meat into medium-sized pieces. Season highly with salt and pepper, add strips of bacon, and cover with hot water. After it begins to boil, hang kettle higher over fire so that it may cook more slowly. See that the liquid in the pot does not become more reduced than one-third.

Prepare vegetables. About half an hour before the time to serve, make a soft dough of the flour, RYZON, salt, shortening, and water. Roll this out, one-half inch thick, and cut into strips. Pour off broth into another dish and remove most of the meat. Put a layer of meat, sliced potatoes, and sliced onion, in the bottom of the kettle, partially cover with strips of dough, and repeat, until materials are all used. Pour over this the hot broth, cover closely, and return to the fire to boil for twenty minutes.

This may be served directly from the kettle.

N. B.—The quantities of meat and vegetables used will depend solely upon the number to be served. Dumpling recipe will serve six people.

N. B.—See Master Dumpling Recipe, page 69.

4 level teaspoonfuls RYZON.

Mix flour, RYZON and salt together and sift into a bowl, add lard and rub it in lightly with tips of fingers, then add water and mix well. Grease a frying pan and turn in the batter, and bake very slowly over the fire. Be sure to loosen from the pan with a thin knife as soon as a crust forms, so that it can be turned over and baked on other side. Sufficient for four persons.

CHAPTER IX

RYZON HOME-MADE CANDIES

Who can resist home-made candies? Very few indeed, for if well made they are delicious. Then, besides being delicious, the home article is cheap as compared with bought candy of the same quality, and, above all, it is pure.

The making of dainty bon-bons is a very attractive pastime to the amateur housekeeper and would-be confectioner, and it is quite surprising how many pretty and delicious candies can be made at home and how simple and fascinating the process.

The value of sugar as a food for both young and old is undisputed, and candy is looked upon nowadays as almost a necessity instead of a mere luxury.

For home-made confectionery, very few tools are necessary, although for the more elaborate kinds the investment of a few dollars amply repays the enthusiast. For instance, there are many candies which can be made without any special instruments, but for perfect candy boiling a sugar thermometer is a great asset, ensuring as it does accuracy and success. The candy thermometer registers over 300° F. or more. But for those who are not so ambitious there are many sweets which can be well made with a little experience and a careful consultation with the clock.

Different kinds of sugar are needed for the various candies—brown, confectioners' and granulated—together with syrup, butter, milk, flavoring extracts, colors, and such toothsome dainties as fruits, shelled nuts, and preserved ginger.

The use of a little RYZON will be found of immense advantage to the amateur candy maker, as it makes the sugar less liable to crystallize while boiling, and gives a more creamy effect to such candies as fudge and caramels.

Tiny crinkled paper cases are pretty for the more elaborate bon-bons, but are not at all essential.
RYZON OLD-FASHIONED MOLASSES CANDY

2 cupfuls (1 pint) molasses.
1 tablespoonful vinegar.
2 tablespoonfuls (1 ounce) butter.
½ level teaspoonful Ryzon.
1 teaspoonful vanilla or ginger extract.

Stir in Ryzon and extract and pour into a buttered tin. When nearly cold pull until glossy. Cut into small pieces and lay on a buttered plate or wrap in waxed paper. Sufficient for one pound of candy.

THE TRUTH ABOUT BAKING POWDERS

ALL baking powders are chemical compounds and all are made by chemical processes. Purity, healthfulness, and reliability in baking powder can be obtained alone by chemical control and analysis. Consequently, the skilled chemist alone is competent to produce a perfect one.

There are three classes of baking powder—the phosphate, the alum, and the tartrate or tartaric acid, known as cream of tartar.

The phosphate type of baking powder is the only kind of which the characteristic ingredient exists naturally in many of our foods. In fact, phosphates in foods are necessary to life.

Phosphate baking powder has long been recognized as the most desirable type, having been in use before either the cream of tartar or alum baking powders were known.

The reason why phosphate baking powders have not been more widely used has been due to the difficulty in obtaining the right phosphate—one which reacts properly in baking, is perfect in purity, and retains indefinitely its strength and efficiency.

RYZON is made with crystallized monosodium phosphate, a new and better kind of phosphate and the right one for baking powder, as illustrated on this page.

The ingredients used in RYZON are guaranteed pure, clean and wholesome by the General Chemical Company, whose facilities for insuring their quality are well known to the scientific world.

RYZON, The Perfect Baking Powder, is strictly an American pure food product, made in the newest and cleanest baking powder plant in America.
WHERE RYZON, THE PERFECT BAKING POWDER IS MADE

These illustrations give some idea of one unit of the Ryzon plant, which is constructed to conform to the most approved modern ideals in food production.

Due regard is given to protection from fire, in a substantial building, and also to securing plenty of air, light, and sunshine.

Absolute cleanliness is maintained in the building and among the workers, who are examined at regular intervals by a physician.
Service facilities are fitted up to encourage personal cleanliness. Purity and wholesomeness are not only watchwords, for Ryzon, but also for the building where "The Perfect Baking Powder" is produced.

All the workers, men and women, wear white uniforms and caps, and the entire interior of the building is finished in white enamel.

The Ryzon plant is open to domestic science teachers, food officials, and others properly interested in a model food establishment.
